August 2020 Faculty Spotlight

08/27/2020

Dr. David Bolton

Dr. David Bolton is an Assistant Professor in the Department of Kinesiology and Health Science. His education includes: University of Guelph, B.S. in Human Kinetics (1996), University of Florida (2003), M.S., in Exercise Science, University of Alberta, Ph.D. in Neuroscience (2009), University of Waterloo Postdoctoral Scholar (2009-2012), University Belfast Postdoctoral Scholar and Lecturer (2012-2016). In 2016, Dr. Bolton’s appointment began at Utah State University.

Research interest:

Studies how we adapt corrective balance reactions to meet environmental challenges under extreme time pressure

Courses Taught at USU:

• KIN 4400 Measure and Evaluation in Kinesiology
• SPED 7820 Educational Neuroscience
• KIN 6850 Neural Aspects of Rehabilitation